Extended Audi brings the sport back

Cabin space: The Audi A5

By Mark D'Aglio
It's been a few years since the so-called 'Sportback' ruled the heavy car market. The 1970s-80s era saw the Rover 800 and the Ford Granada own the car of choice for captains of industry up and down the land.

Audi, ever keen to exploit a gap in the market served only by the Chronon C5, has decided to build a five-door version of its popular A5 Coupé.

In introducing the five-door A5 Coupé, Audi has managed to create a car that, even with its sweeping roofline, can accommodate a rear window a only slightly smaller than the A5 sedan. There is also 480 litres of boot space, just less than the A5 sedan.

As launch in the UK, four engines will power the A5 Sportback. Through the 2.0-litre TFSI with 200bhp and the 3.2-litre V6 with 251bhp will form the petrol line-up, while the 1.8-litre TDI and the 2.0-litre TDI 3.0-litre V6 make up the diesel range.

Three levels of trim will be available, standard LE and LE-Lines, with prices starting at £25,400 for the standard 2.0 TFSI, rising to £36,200 for the 3.2 V6. Cars are available to order now with deliveries commencing in October.
